SOME POTATO TRIVIA

* The potato (Solanum tuberosum) was first domesticated in the high-altitude Andes, specifically in modern-day southern Peru and northwestern Bolivia, between 8000 and 5000 BC, with cultivation possibly dating back 10,000 years

* Centuries after they were introduced to Europe and North America, potatoes represent one of the most important parts of the world's cuisine and the fourth-largest food crop in the entire world (following maize, rice and wheat).
